President's Update

Season Greetings!

The SSSCC Board of Directors held our training this month at Moreno Valley College. During our training, the SSSCC Board of Directors, student leaders, and advisors from Crafton Hills, Moreno Valley, and Mt. San Jacinto colleges completed our second strategic planning session. We participated in group discussions and a conversation about cultural empathy. Thank you to all who attended. In January, the Board will be traveling to San Jose City College on Friday, January 13th. If you're in the bay area, please join us. More information will be available on our website calendar.

Prior to the Board training, SSSCC leadership visited Crafton Hills and Riverside City colleges. We would like to thank all the students who shared their experiences and ideas with us during these recent campus visits.

During the December Board of Directors meeting, we shared recent personal and professional wins along with approving two town halls focused on mental health and Native American students' unique challenges. The town hall on Native American students will inform the third chapter of our Anti-Racism Student Plan of Action. Watch for more information about each of these town halls on our social media.

We hope you have a restful winter break.

In solidarity, Clemaus Tervalon President.

REGIONS

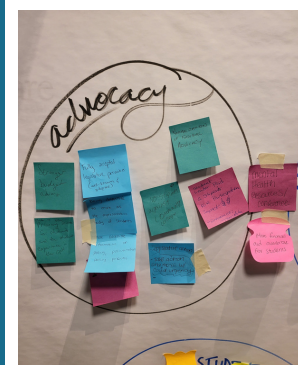

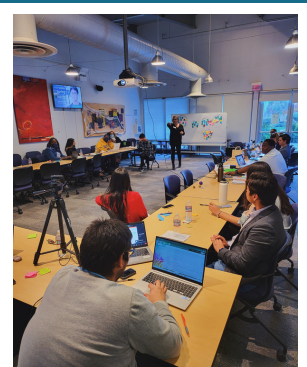

Region III Highlight

Board Training at Diablo Valley College

The SSSCC held their monthly Board of Directors Training on November 19th at Diablo Valley College, which resides in Region III. The SSSCC kicked off their strategic planning process with the help of the Diablo Valley, Los Medanos, and Laney college students, who provided input into the potential SSSCC future goals.

During the training, we worked in small teams to identify organizational priorities that the SSSCC should address. The groups also participated in a conversation about power and privilege dynamics. The Board of Directors feels it is critical to include students from as many regions as possible in our strategic planning process in an effort to fully represent our constituents.

The SSCC extends a huge thank you to Diablo Valley College for hosting our group and other colleges in attendance for engaging in the important conversation! The SSSCC appreciates the collective voices of diverse thoughts and ideas!
